- g) Dextra can free itself completely from the obligation to pay by buying out the value in dispute with consideration for the risks of litigation and collection.

- a) The start date of the contract is set out in the insurance policy. The insurance coverage begins after the selected waiting period (selectable: 0, 30 or 60 days) noted on the policy (this is known as the date of inception). There is no waiting period for a seamless change of insurer as long as the dispute would have been covered by the previous insurer. There is no waiting period in cases of damages and compensation for personal suffering following an accident.
- b) The insurance shall be valid for one year and renew automatically for another year unless it is terminated by a party by the final working day prior to the expiry of the current insurance year in written or electronic text form.
- c) The policyholder has the right to withdraw from the insurance contract within 14 days after receipt of the policy. In this case, benefits already received are to be refunded.

- e) The insurance contract expires on the day the domicile is transferred from Switzerland or in the event of bankruptcy/merger of the policyholder.

How are insurance premiums calculated?

- a) The calculation of the premium is based on changeable facts (business activity, total wages / fees, annual turnover, number of employees, etc.). Changes of more than 10% to the figures noted in the policy must be reported by the policyholder within 60 days of the end of the financial year. Before this notification, there is only precautionary cover, provided that everything has been declared correctly so far.
- b) Dextra may charge a fee for special expenses such as shipping or administration costs.

How do I report a case?

- a) Cases are reported online and all documents must be submitted electronically.
- b) Without the prior consent of Dextra, the insured person may not engage the services of any legal representative, initiate any proceedings, agree any settlement or take any legal action. Otherwise, the insured person must bear any and all additional costs resulting from this.

What is it like to work with the lawyers and legal experts from Dextra?

- a) The lawyers and legal experts from Dextra will support the insured person, conduct discussions with a view to settling the dispute and take suitable action in coordination with the insured person. The insured person can suggest their own legal representative as long as this does not incur additional costs.
- b) The insured person is free to select a legal representative in judicial or administrative proceedings or in the event of a conflict of interest. If Dextra rejects the proposed legal representative or legal firm, the insured person can propose three legal representatives or legal firms and Dextra must accept one.
- c) The legal representative must be released from their professional duty of confidentiality and must use the portal for lawyers provided by Dextra.
- d) If Dextra provides the insured person with advice and support without reservation, this must not be interpreted as a commitment to provide cover. Dextra also rejects all liability for advice given without a legal obligation.
- e) If there is a difference of opinion with regard to the action to be taken, especially if Dextra considers intervention futile, the insured person can demand that the case be assessed by an arbitrator within 14 days of receiving a letter from Dextra justifying its position. The arbitrator shall be selected by mutual agreement and may not be in a confidential relationship with either of the parties. The losing party shall bear the costs and reimburse the winning party for its share of the advance payment.
- f) If Dextra refuses to take further action and if the insured person litigates at their own expense and obtains a more advantageous outcome through a judgement, Dextra shall cover the costs of the proceedings.

When does Dextra provide services?

- a) Dextra provides insured services when the need for legal support arises, after the end of any relevant waiting.
- b) Dextra shall not provide any services if the need for legal support was foreseeable prior to the start of the contract or during any relevant waiting period, given the usual sequence of events and general experience.
